About the Cover

The Henley Gate, along with Steck Circle and Kirby Crossing, are three new campus landmarks created by philanthropic support that together form the re-imagined East Entrance to UC Santa Barbara.

It is our sincere pleasure to present UC Santa Barbara's Honor Roll of Donors for 2007-08, which represents an unprecedented outpouring of dedication and commitment to the overall excellence of the campus. Alumni, parents, and friends contributed $81.4 million in philanthropic gifts to The Campaign for UC Santa Barbara, exceeding the previous year's record fund-raising achievement by more than $10.5 million.

With this extraordinary show of support, the campus surpassed the $500 million milestone in The Campaign for UC Santa Barbara. The overwhelming spirit of unity that the campaign continues to engender reflects a shared vision and an enduring partnership among the entire UCSB family. Although we are justly proud of these achievements and what they represent to the growth of the campus, it is important to add that our work has just begun. We face challenging times ahead, which will require continued financial support of the university.

Together, we are helping to transform UC Santa Barbara. Since the campaign began in 2000, your gifts have yielded a truly bountiful harvest: 54 new endowed chairs, 129 graduate fellowships, premier facilities, and campus landmarks equal to the growing reputation of one of the world's leading research universities. The Henley Gate, together with Steck Circle and Kirby Crossing, forms UCSB's stunning new East Entrance. This gateway to learning welcomes all who pass through it and conveys the splendor, quality, and promise of our campus.

UC Santa Barbara is deeply grateful to each and every one of you for your devotion and generosity. Together, we are forging a new period of distinction for UCSB. This is an achievement of which we can all be proud, one that makes us confident that our campus will reach even greater heights in the years to come.

Fredric E. Steck ’67, Chair

UC Santa Barbara is proud to recognize the thousands of alumni, parents, and friends, as well as corporations, foundations, and organizations, who made generous contributions to The Campaign for UC Santa Barbara in the year ending June 30, 2008. Their philanthropic gifts will enhance teaching and research, strengthen existing areas of excellence, and make it possible to develop new, innovative academic programs.

To all of our supporters, especially those listed in the Honor Roll of Donors that begins on page 14, UCSB expresses its sincere gratitude for your willingness to invest in the future of the campus. On the pages that follow are just a few examples of the ways in which the generosity of UC Santa Barbara’s benefactors supports academic excellence and creates new opportunities for learning and discovery.
The Bernard Osher Foundation, of San Francisco, has established a $1 million endowment that will provide ongoing scholarship support for California Community College students who transfer to UC Santa Barbara. The gift is part of the foundation’s $20 million educational initiative to support endowed scholarship programs at 19 University of California and California State University campuses.

California community colleges serve as a gateway to the state’s four-year universities. Thirty percent of UC graduates are community college transfers.

Approximately 1,400 students transfer to UCSB each fall, the majority from community colleges. The Osher scholarships will be awarded to incoming UCSB students who have graduated from a California Community College within the last four years, reached either the junior or senior level, and demonstrate financial need. Each scholarship recipient will receive $5,000 per academic year to cover educational fees or tuition.

The Bernard Osher Foundation seeks to improve the quality of life through support for higher education and the arts. It provides post-secondary scholarship funding to colleges and universities across the nation, with special attention to reentry students. In addition, the foundation supports a growing national lifelong learning network for adults, including the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at UCSB, which provides high quality, adult learning courses designed for mature learners.

Osher Foundation scholarships will provide support for community college transfer students such as Maricela Morales, Vincent Torres, and Stephanie Wissner, who now attend UC Santa Barbara.
More than 370,000 aerial images — a pictorial odyssey spanning 65 major metropolitan areas in the United States at the turn of the 21st Century — has been donated to UCSB by Pacific Western Aerial Surveys, of Santa Barbara.

Valued at more than $14.3 million, the Citipix Collection is unparalleled in its size, focus, and resolution, said Larry Carver, director of the Map and Imagery Laboratory in Davidson Library, where the collection will be housed. No other comparable collection of aerial photography exists for this time period.

The gift from UCSB parents Michael Kambitsch and Susan Lord is the largest of The Campaign for UC Santa Barbara.

The Citipix Collection will enhance the distinction of UCSB’s imagery collection, already one of the most extensive in the U. S. academic community. The archive of color-stereo images taken between 1999-2002 provides clear detail at up to six inches off the ground. The collection consists of original film negatives.

Because aerial photographs are shot straight down, they are extremely accurate. As a landscape is altered over time, mosaics of such photographs become a valuable resource for geologists tracing earthquake faults, biologists, historians, archaeologists, land use planners, engineers, attorneys settling property disputes, pollution monitoring, and public health officials tracking disease vectors.
An endowed scholarship fund for Men’s and Women’s Tennis at UC Santa Barbara has been established with a $2.2 million contribution from an anonymous donor. The gift, the largest ever to Intercollegiate Athletics, will enable UCSB to attract outstanding student athletes to campus. The tennis teams are two of the most successful in the Big West Conference.

The UCSB men’s team has won six Big West championships, including the last three in a row, and five out of the last seven competitions. It has also advanced to nine NCAA team championship tournaments.

The Gauchos women’s program has won six Big West championships and advanced to the NCAA tournament twice. It has also sent numerous players to the NCAA individual tournaments.

UCSB’s Intercollegiate Athletics program includes 19 teams that compete at the NCAA Division I level and is considered a leader in the Big West Conference. It has won the league’s Commissioner’s Cup six times in the past seven years, an honor given to the all-sports conference champion.

The National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics also consistently ranks Gauc hology among the top 100 NCAA Division I programs.

The graduation rate for UC Santa Barbara student athletes is the highest in the Big West Conference.
UC Santa Barbara has received a $3 million gift from William K. Bowes, Jr. to establish an endowed chair to attract an eminent researcher to lead the campus’s new Center for Stem Cell Biology and Engineering. The long-term goal of the collaborative interdisciplinary research center is the development of stem cell-based therapeutics for a range of human diseases.

The endowed chair will be named in memory of Bowes’s mother, Ruth Garland, a distinguished physician who was one of the first women to graduate from the Stanford School of Medicine, where she later taught. Garland was born in Santa Barbara and raised in Ojai.

Research in the new center addresses challenging problems in stem cell biology related to the molecular mechanisms of pluripotency (the ability of the stem cell to become any other type of cell in the body), self renewal and differentiation, using both human embryonic stem cells, induced pluripotent stem cells, and stem cells in simpler organisms. Bioengineering research will investigate novel methods for stem cell growth, differentiation, sorting, and delivery.

Construction of a state-of-the-art research facility is under way with funding from the California Institute for Regenerative Medicine. The center is a member of the Southern California Stem Cell Scientific Collaborative, a research partnership dedicated to advancing discovery in the emerging field.

Pictured above is a human embryonic stem cell colony with a fluorescent stain. Scientists are using stem cells to understand the basic biology of pluripotency, the ability of a stem cell to become any other type of cell in the body.

Researchers at UCSB’s new interdisciplinary Center for Stem Cell Biology and Engineering are collaborating to develop stem-cell based therapeutics for a range of human diseases. Co-directors of the center are UCSB biologists Dennis Clegg (left) and James Thomson, an international pioneer in stem cell research, and mechanical engineer Hyongsok Soh (right).
For more than 20 years, pioneering physicists from UC Santa Barbara’s Kavli Institute for Theoretical Physics (KITP) rented a house owned by Ann Rice and her late husband, Myron, while attending the institute’s lengthy collaborative research programs.

Annually, nearly 1,000 international scientists visit the KITP to take part in its specialized programs, but many with families cannot attend because of the prohibitive cost of relocation, childcare, housing, and transportation.

Through an innovative planned gift, Ann Rice, a former UCSB faculty member, donated her rental property to the campus, and with the proceeds from its sale established the Drs. Ann and Myron Rice Family Fund. The $1.4 million endowment will provide financial assistance to KITP families — especially those in which the physicist is also the mother of young children — so that these scientists can take part in the months-long, intense research experience that is the hallmark of the institute.

The Rice gift has enabled the KITP to strengthen its mission as a retreat facility for the advancement of science by addressing the challenges of modern parenting and two-career families. The generous gift will also provide Rice with a steady stream of income during her lifetime.
Preserving Our Cultural Legacy

The University Art Museum has received two major collections: 156 photographs by the legendary artist Andy Warhol (1928-1987), a founder of Pop Art whose paintings and prints of movie stars, soup cans, and other icons of America made him one of the most famous artists in the world; and the complete archives of Southern California architect Edward A. Killingsworth (1917-2004), who achieved international prominence during the 1960s with his signature light-weight wooden post-and-lintel residences and commercial buildings that left an indelible mark on the regional and global landscape.

The Andy Warhol Foundation made an unprecedented gift of more than 28,500 original Warhol photographs valued in excess of $28 million to museums nationwide to enable a wide range of people to view and study this important yet relatively unknown body of Warhol’s work. The UCSB gift consists of Polaroid and black-and-white images of luminaries from the art, design, and fashion worlds, including Debbie Harry, Halston, and Victor Hugo, as well as selected landscape and abstract images.

The Killingsworth archive is a significant addition to the museum’s renowned Architecture and Design Collection, which contains the work of more than 110 designers and documents the built environment of California and the Southwest.

A 1959 rendering of the Hilton Inn in Amarillo, Texas by the late Southern California architect Edward A. Killingsworth is part of his archive, which is now housed in the University Art Museum’s prized Architecture and Design Collection.
Recognizing Distinction

Private gifts are increasingly important in maintaining the quality of UC Santa Barbara’s mission of teaching, research, and public service. Among the principal forms of private support are endowed chairs, which support the educational and research activities of distinguished members of the faculty.

The following generous benefactors have made permanent investments in UC Santa Barbara’s future by establishing endowed chairs.

Lancaster Society
UC Santa Barbara is grateful for the extraordinary support of our alumni, parents, friends, trustees of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation, corporations, and foundations who have contributed $100,000 or more to the university over time. Through their commitment and leadership, these distinguished members of the Lancaster Society have helped build the university’s reputation for teaching, research, and public service. The Society is named for Louis and Winifred Lancaster, civic-minded philanthropists deeply committed to the public partnership that is at the heart of UC Santa Barbara. During their lifetimes, they helped establish the UC Santa Barbara Foundation and worked tirelessly to build meaningful bridges between the university and the larger community. Their vision is sustained through the loyal generosity of today’s members of the Lancaster Society, celebrated for their contributions to an enduring foundation for excellence at UC Santa Barbara.

Legacy Circle
The Legacy Circle honors alumni, friends, faculty, and staff who have included UC Santa Barbara in their estate plans through some form of planned gift. Membership in the society is conferred upon those who have communicated to the university their intention to make a gift through a bequest, charitable trust, charitable gift annuity, pooled income funds, life insurance, retirement fund, or a gift of property with a retained life estate. The following generous donors are providing the legacy of support with which UC Santa Barbara will continue to grow and excel.

Chancellor's Council

The Chancellor’s Council was established in 1975 by a group of donors who believed that ongoing annual support was essential to building and maintaining excellence at UC Santa Barbara. Since that time, it has grown into the university’s premier annual giving program, recognizing donors of $1,000 or more. These gifts may be unrestricted, for use where the need is greatest, or restricted to support a specific department or program. UC Santa Barbara honors and celebrates alumni, friends, parents, and trustees of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation for their ongoing partnership and commitment to the future of this great university.
